

COCKPIT
Explorer

The Explorer is a consistent expansion of the KLUDI COCKPIT shower system family. Like its ‘big brother’, COCKPIT Discovery, the latest family member epitomises a combination of outstanding ease of use, processing of premium materials and meticulous manufacturing quality ‘Made in Germany’. The compact thermostat fitting leaves a lot of room, making the COCKPIT Explorer ideal even for smaller showers and renovation projects. Another bonus: the head shower not only swivels freely, but is also adjustable in height, just like the hand shower – for an even more individual shower experience.

KLUDI COCKPIT Explorer prioritises ease of use. The operation is reduced to two prominent controls on the front of the fitting that lets users set the water volume and temperature of the head and hand shower simply by turning them – it is intuitive, convenient and effortless.

Both controls are inclined to the rear, keeping them within the user’s sight and reach. This makes it – as demonstrated by ergonomic tests – even easier to use. The feel and design also ensures reliable and precise handling.

Reliable performance: A pressure equaliser ensures constant water pressure at all times, providing lasting protection against damage to the head shower – even when the nozzles are blocked.

Perfectly designed: The KLUDI engineers have designed the insides of the head shower in a way that stops water from running continuously after you finish your shower.

No dripping

Up to 18 cm

Just as you want and need: The height of the hand shower can also be changed to match the respective user preferences.

The KLUDI COCKPIT Explorer combines optimised ergonomics with a new, attractive design.

Completely safe to touch: Thanks to the 'Touch Proof' technology, the complete thermal decoupling of the control unit ensures optimal protection against scalding.
